Q.1. Power Cut, Part 1

1. It was an evening just like any other in the Chen family apartment Mr. and Mrs. Chen were tired from working all day, and the children were busy playing on tablet. Suddenly, the lights went off. The apartment was completely dark. 'Oh no! We have lost all our electricity,' cried Mr. Chen. 'There must be a power cut in the city,' said Mrs. Chen.

2 'Is everybody okay?' asked Mr. Chen. 'Yes, I'm okay,' said Amy. 'Wow! It's so dark in here,' said Ben. 'I've never seen our house like this before. Mr. Chen picked up his torch and turned it on. But there was only a small beam of light. 'I don't know how long this torchlight will last.

3 Then Mrs. Chen wiped her forehead. 'I'm feeling very hot,' she said. 'Who turned the heater on?' Mr. Chen frowned. 'The heater is not on. The machine that keeps us cool has stopped working.

4 Mrs. Chen went into the kitchen. 'Oh no! The fridge is not working either,' she cried. 'All the food will be ruined.' 'And what about the freezer?' asked Ben. 'The ice cream cake for Grandma is in there. It's a special treat for her.

5 'That's a big problem, said Amy. 'The ice cream cake will melt if it gets warm. Just then the torch went off. 'And now we have an even bigger problem, said Mr. Chen. Oh dear. What do We do now? Mrs. Chen asked.
